PILOT LEAPS TO SAFETY AS PLANE BURNS

2,000-Foot Parachute Drop Made From Craft By Airmail Aviator

12 MAIL SACKS SALVAGED

Spectacular Descent Made in Pennsylvania; Plane Is Destroyed

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Apr. 26—Henry J. Brown, night air mail pilot and winner of the 1929 Los Angeles to Cleveland National air derby, joined the ranks of the Caterpillar club today when he went over the wing of his plane at Olanta, Pa., three miles northwest of here.

Brown dropped 2,000 feet to safety and escaped uninjured. His plane, however, burst into flames, struck the ground and was destroyed.

Twelve mail sacks were salvaged from the wreckage. The mail was rushed to the Clearfield postoffice and was dispatched to New York [illegible] train.

Motor Stalls

[illegible] was flying [illegible] mail from Cleveland to New York and was only a few miles west of the foothills of the Allegheny mountains when the motor of his plane stalled.

The pilot was flying at an altitude of about 2,000 feet when he attempted to transfer his gasoline supply from the left wing tank to the right wing container so as to equalize the plane's balance. The gasoline in the right wing tank had been almost entirely drained.

In the midst of the operation the gasoline line clogged. The motor coughed spasmodically and then stopped. As the plane hurtled earthward Brown climbed out of the cockpit, dropped over the side and pulled the ripcord of his parachute.

Plane Rights Itself

While he was floating to earth the pilotless plane suddenly righted itself, the clogged gasoline cleared and the motor began to hum again as the plane swooped in wide circles about the descending pilot.

Brown landed safely and ran to the blazing wreckage of his plane. With the aid of two farmers who had heard the crash he [illegible] able [illegible] 12 sacks of mail.

Brown was unable to determine the amount of mail received. His mail record was burned when the plane crashed.

NEW YORK, A[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] presence [illegible] today for the [illegible] [illegible] Thames [illegible] Long Island Sound [illegible] Thursday [illegible] the crew were saved [illegible]

The Thames was [illegible] years old and when the fire, the origin of which was not determined, broke out the ship burned like paper. Many of the deck hands, hastily recruited and without sea experience, tied life preservers on in such a manner they were washed away shortly after the wearers jumped into the sound, investigators said. Others lost their lives when crowded lifeboats capsized in a heavy sea.

Officers on the burned boat said failure of nearby ships to play search[illegible] lights on the water prevented rescue of some of the drowning men.

Prisoner Here Predicts Fire

Chief Thompson Recalls Warning Issued by Man Held for Federal Officers

WITH the origin of the fire in Ohio penitentiary that claimed more than 300 lives still a mystery, Police Chief J. W. Thompson today recalled a strange forewarning of the holocaust from the lips of a prisoner arrested here nearly two weeks ago.

Either gifted with the strange power of prophecy or with actual knowledge from experience he had as prisoner in the penitentiary, William Bancroft, alias William Banks, presaged a terrible upheaval within the walls of the penitentiary while he was in custody here.

"IT may be in a few hours, a few days, or even a few months, but it's going to happen," Chief Thompson recalls hearing the prisoner say.

"And when it happens [illegible] be a terrible thing [illegible] [illegible]

PEN TRAGEDY PUTS POLITICS IN BACKGROUND

Leaders of Both Parties Look Forward to Action in Next Legislature

PRISON PROBLEM FACED

Income Tax Looms as Likely Partisan Issue: Democratic Heads Oppose It.

BY MURRAY POWERS
Staff Correspondent of The Star

COLUMBUS, April 26—P[illegible] politics vanished before the sorrow and grief over the disaster at the penitentiary this week.

Instead of considering only [illegible] [illegible] looking forward to [illegible] at [illegible] of the state legislature [illegible] steps to [illegible]

[illegible] governor and his special commission now being named [illegible] Ohio's welfare institutions will have their reports completed and ready for action by the legislature.

As a result the next session of the legislature not only will face the vastly important problem of taxation to consider but also will have at least to [illegible] the state's new prison housing program.

Outstanding Session

This undoubtedly will make the next session of the general assembly, if not the most important, one of the most important sessions in the history of Ohio.

Indications that the income tax proposal for Ohio may furnish a partisan issue are daily being seen.

While the committee now studying taxation was only appointed by the governor to consider means and ways, nevertheless the group has come to be known as "Governor Cooper's tax committee" and many believe that the results of the group will seemingly have his backing when the reports go to the legislature.

In the meantime prominent Democrats are taking a stand against the proposed income tax. Ten days ago George White of Marietta, outstanding Democratic candidate for the nomination for governor, came out flatly against the proposal, declaring that if it were enacted these proposed [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] last fall would be breaking faith with the people of Ohio.

Donahey With Opposition

This week saw a second Democrat taking up the fight against the income tax. In an address at a rally of Columbus Democrats, former Governor Vic Donahey denounced [illegible] his party [illegible] such a [illegible]

PRISON CHIEF GIVEN CHANCE FOR DEFENSE

Bettman Consents To Resuming Probe Session at Request of Thomas' Friends.

GETS PLENTY OF TIME

Rehearing To Continue If It Takes Till Midnight, Committee Says.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 26. Governor Myers Y. Cooper's commission investigating the tragic Ohio penitentiary fire was to resume its probe at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon with Warden Preston E. Thomas as the only witness, it was announced today.

Friends of Thomas, against whom prisoners have conducted a "passive resistance" campaign since the fire and have asked that he be removed, requested that the warden be called to tell his side of the story. Attorney General Bettman said the warden would be given the opportunity to testify.

As the investigators planned to resume the hearing, the situation within the penitentiary was very quiet. The hundreds of convicts went to breakfast in orderly manner and then turned to the idle house. Company K, termed the bad men of the prison, were fed inside their cage.

Gets Peace Promise

Deputy Warden J. C. Woodard said he had talked with the prisoners and that they had promised to remain orderly.

Attorney General Gilbert Bettman who heads the committee, said it has not been determined what kind of a report will be made. The committee may present a bare summary of the evidence or make recommendations, whichever it sees fit, he said.

Rehearing of Thomas will continue through today until it is finished, even if it takes until midnight, members of the committee said.

Unclaimed Bodies Buried

Forty-five unclaimed victims of the disaster were buried in three cemeteries this afternoon. The caskets were taken from the improvised morgue in the horticultural building at the fairgrounds on army trucks, four bodies on each truck. The burials were postponed from yesterday and the bodies left at the temporary morgue at the state fairgrounds so that relatives might have a final chance to claim them.

The utmost simplicity marked the burial. Thirty-one bodies were laid to rest in Eastlawn cemetery in one long grave. At each end of the plot was an American flag. Twelve others were buried at the Catholic cemetery in Mount Calvary and two negroes were buried in Evergreen cemetery.

About 2,000 persons witnessed the burial at Eastlawn cemetery. They [illegible] a great deal and there was [illegible]

Warden Blames "Bolshevik" Prisoners

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 26—The "bolshevik" element in Ohio penitentiary has been agitating among the convicts ever since the legislature of New York state made concessions to prisoners after the Auburn uprising, Warden Preston E. Thomas said today, in commenting on the prisoners' "passive resistance" campaign against him. To this element Thomas attributed the trouble which followed the disastrous prison fire in which 320 lives were lost.

At Auburn, Thomas said, the prisoners were granted practically all their demands, including more food and clothing and suspension of the warden. Shortly after this, he added, the agitators got to work in the prison here, and Thomas said he immediately conferred with Ohio National Guard officers and regular army officers at Fort Hayes, making certain that troops would be ready to go into the prison [illegible]

It's Just Like Asking a Man To Enter a Lion's Den, Will Says in Reviewing Cal as Prospect for Senate

Coolidge Would Not Like To Lower His Social Position in Upper House.

BY WILL ROGERS

WELL all I k[illegible] read in [illegible] If I read in [illegible] Mr Coolidge [illegible] that [illegible] happened [illegible] [illegible] Mr [illegible] Coolidge [illegible]

It [illegible] rightly so. He says if he went [illegible] that [illegible] agreeable to many of my colleagues. [illegible] is right at that. There is [illegible] that [illegible] and no [illegible] exclusive [illegible] fees to [illegible] in an u[illegible]

Just for Democrats

Well [illegible] Senate is no different. There is [illegible] of Democrats that have got [illegible] and [illegible] judge [illegible] come to [illegible] would kinder [illegible] Mr Coolidge [illegible] are just naturally [illegible] prefer some Massachusetts Democrat [illegible] President.

Then another thing that might have had its effect [illegible] Mr Coolidge [illegible] was the fact that in his very district [illegible] Democrat [illegible] the cars off a Republican [illegible] office of Congressman and that was in Massachusetts where up to then Democrats had been confined mostly to Zoos. This too Mr Coolidge seemed to anticipate some of the embarrassment to some of his fellow members of the Republican side of the Senate.

You see there is another ailment cropped up in the last few years. We had no more than eradicated yellow fever and small pox than Insurgentry broke out in our midst. Well it has quite a sprinkling of victims and like all ailments it has naturally reached the Senate. Well Lepers kinder naturally flock together, so these observation cases in the Insurgentry ward kinder drifted in with the old Democratic Lumbago bunch (They had weak backs from carrying their troubles). So these two naturally pooled their troubles, and you would be surprised the amount they had accumulated. Now what Mr Coolidge meant is if he went in there he would naturally be called upon to be nice to them and it would be embarrassing.

Can't Forget High Hatting

Then he knew also of a third group that was recognized members of his own Doctrine, but members who had failed to make the breakfast table when he was presiding over the pancakes in the good old days of the feed trough. They haven't forgot that he kinder high hatted some of them and if he come in there with nothing but just a membership card why he would not even get the loan of the privilege of the floor from them.

Then another thing he knew is that when you went in there, you had to start at the bottom that is if you was not Grundy. Course he was an exception. He put all these in there so naturally when he come in, he got the best in the House.

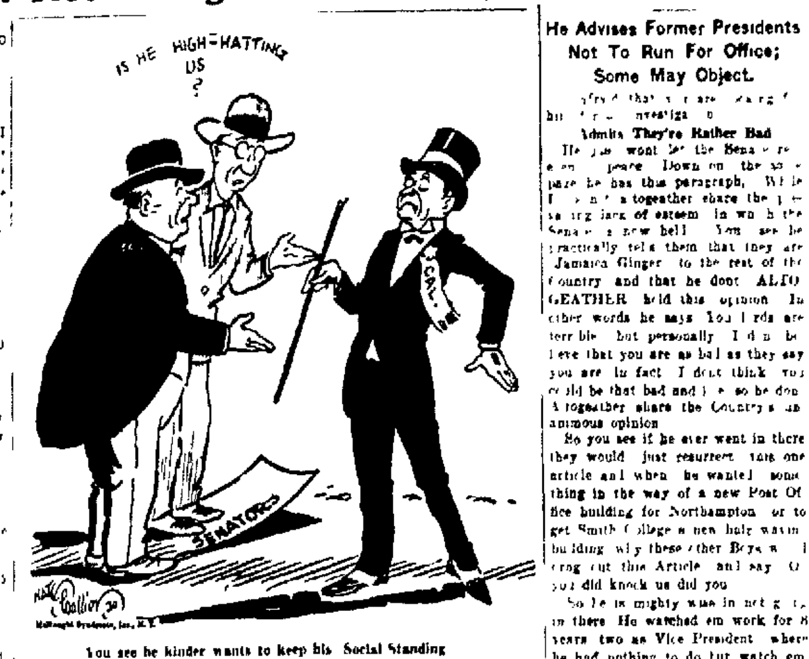
But Mr Coolidge had no list of Campaign contributions that he could show that he could swing so about the best Committee he could hope to get on was the Ways and Means Committee to find out what to do with excess empty bottles found in the cloak room. Or perhaps be put on the funeral Committee that would be called on to visit the home with the body of a Brother member. You see he knows all these things and so thats why he said he would not be interested.

Conception Was Great

Now get this what he says. Yet I do not mean to underestimate the Senate. In its conception its a great legislative body. Get that In its conception! He dont say in its execution its great. He only says that the idea of it is great. You know that fellow has always got his tongue in his cheek; he was kidding those birds and bet they swallowed this just as it sounded. He is wise to those Babies and he is too wise to get mixed up with em; he knows that they are laying for him if he ever pokes his nose in there and he is not going to give them the chance.

Then in just the next paragraph he punches right in the jaw with this: I passed to a higher rank twelve years ago when I was elected Governor of Massachusetts. To take a back track now would be to give up a position that I believe is important to the Country.

You see he kinder wants to keep his Social standing. He has got this home now in Northampton and he wants to kinder put on some dinners and he dont want it said in the morning paper Another Senator gives a Dinner. He wants the same mentioned Ex Presidents. [illegible] awful scarce but you can't hardly shake a bush without an Ex Senator running



You see he kinder wants to keep his Social Standing

He Advises Former Presidents Not To Run For Office; Some May Object.

[illegible] afraid that [illegible] are [illegible] but [illegible] investigation.

Admits They're Rather Bad

He just went for the Senate [illegible] peace. Down on the same page he has this paragraph, While I do not altogether share the prevailing lack of esteem in which the Senate is now held. You see he practically tells them that they are Jamaica Ginger to the rest of the Country and that he dont ALTOGEATHER hold this opinion. In other words he says You Lords are terrible but personally I dont believe that you are as bad as they say you are. In fact I dont think you could be that bad and [illegible] so he dont Altogeather share the Country's unanimous opinion.

So you see if he ever went in there they would just resurrect this one article and when he wanted something in the way of a new Post Office building for Northampton or to get Smith College a new hair waving building why these other Boys would drag out this Article and say O you did knock us did you.

So he is mighty wise in not going in there. He watched em work for 8 years, two as Vice President where he had nothing to do but watch em and six where he had to run the Country in spite of them, so asking a man to enter a Den of Lions after he has scars on his body from them, well it just aint in the cards. What a wise little Fellow he is.

NEW ASSOCIATION OF FRATERNITIES PLAN

Upper Sandusky Man Author of New Idea For Organization at University.

(Marion Star Bureau)

COLUMBUS, April 26—A new fraternity association embracing all fraternities on the campus will be formed at Ohio State university before the end of the present quarter. The plans were outlined by Fred J Milligan, Upper Sandusky, assistant to the dean of men.

Presidents of the various fraternities have finally come to an agreement after more than four months of controversy which resulted in a split in the Interfraternity council and caused one of the greatest mix-ups ever experienced among fraternities at the university.

Seventy three fraternities including more than 3,000 students will become members of the new association which will be organized under rules never before attempted on the campus.

The group will be supervised by the administration of the university. Few binding rules will be included in the constitution but no fraternity will be allowed to withdraw. In all previous groups of this nature, any members could withdraw whenever it became dissatisfied.

The interfraternity council broke up four months ago when a controversy arose over the eligibility of [illegible] Carey [illegible] of W[illegible] and the [illegible] handled [illegible] members of the [illegible] organization.

Rudy Vallee Picture Here Next Week To Start Feminine Heart Palpitation; Ruth Chatterton To Appear in Dramatic Treat; "Rio Rita" On For Return Booking.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

RECALL how lovely and compelling Ruth Chatterton was in The Laughing Lady? Reviewers give her another big hand in Sarah and Son to be seen and heard at the Palace Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Phillippe de Lacy, the beautiful boy who is really a French war orphan, plays the part of her son. Fuller Mellish, Jr is cast as her vagrant husband. Frederic March is her lawyer. Gilbert Emery and Doris Lloyd are the man and wife who further complicate the plot and William Stack is the man who befriends Ruth when she most needs someone.

Buddy Rogers in Town Sunday and Monday

The trailers at the Palace showed some thrilling air scenes and some rather interesting inside shots. Paul Lukas, the polished man of films, has the role of the likable enemy airman who fights Buddy and becomes his greatest friend. The cast is made up of some expert pilots who add zip to the air scenes.

"The Vagabond Lover" Himself

Rudy Vallee

Rudy got a break when they selected a cast for his first picture The Vagabond Lover, at the Palace next Friday and Saturday. Sally Blane, Marie Dressler, Eddie Nugent and Danny O'Shea were selected for the four feature parts and Marshall Neilan was given the megaphone.

Generally some one who goes over big in the cast gets the razzberries in Hollywood but they did right by our Rudy and gave him a cast and a story and a director. Everyone who's seen the picture has said that his singing or crooning as it's dubbed, is Rudy's redeeming feature in the show.

The big thing about the picture is that it brings the idol of the gals to the films talking and singing and making love. His Connecticut Yankees accompanied him to Hollywood for his picture and play for him while he yodles through A Little Kiss Each Morning, I'll Be Reminded of You, I Love You Believe Me I Love You, If You Were the Only Girl and I'm Just a Vagabond Lover.

Boles-Daniels Return in "Rio Rita."

JOHN BOLES singing When You're In Love You'll Waltz is one of the high recollections of Rio Rita returned to play at the Marion Wednesday and Thursday. Of course vivacious Bebe Daniels was the sensation of the picture because prior to talkies and the discovery of her pleasing singing and talking voice Bebe had been rating some pretty shaky parts. Here she gets her chance and gives a wonderful performance.

Those who saw the picture when it played at the Palace will remember that side splitting comedy team, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in their drinking scene. The show will probably get some repeats in the audience.

Warner and Wilson in "The Furies"

ZOE AKINS famous play has been brought to the screen. The Furies with H B Warner and Lois Wilson will be at the Marion next Friday and Saturday. This Warner Wilson team is a good one.

They let this jazzy stuff alone and go in for the [illegible] subtle characterizations that make screen parts memorable. The play you'll remember concerns a woman's relations with four men to each of whom she is bound in some way. It is set among New York's upper social strata, and has one of the weirdest and strangest stories ever devised by an author of plays.

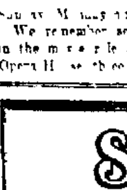
"The Phantom of the Opera" Back Again



Lon Chaney

One of the big sensations of the year it was made, The Phantom of the Opera has been re[illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible] Dialogue ex[illegible] talk[illegible] for his first talking picture but all the other actors [illegible] It's [illegible] the Marion Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

We remember seeing Lon Chaney in the [illegible] at the old Grand Opera House [illegible] four years ago. The horror of his face revealed to Mary Philbin caused the high school crowd to go home down the middle of the street. It was one of Chaney's best character makeups and it certainly got the effect he was striving for.

The scene is laid in and around the famous Paris Opera House and includes among the big scenes a production of Gounod's Faust in exactly the style the opera was presented in 1880. The songs, duets, trios and choruses as well as the ballet numbers of the opera have been recorded by expert singers and a [illegible] piece orchestra for the releasing of this re-done picture.

The silent picture was excellent and we're on edge to see what's been done with it by the producers.

Pentecostal Power

A SERMONETTE

BY THE REV CARL V ROOP
Pastor United Brethren Church

And greater works than these shall he do —John 14 12

THEY were all with one accord in one place in prayer when the sound as of a rushing mighty wind was heard and tongues like as of fire were seen and the power of the Holy Ghost was felt which caused them to speak in many languages. The result was 3000 souls born into the kingdom and [illegible] the same day.

Jesus had told his disciples not long before this He that believeth on me the works that I do shall he do also and greater works than these shall he do because I go unto my Father and I will pray the Father and He shall give you another Comforter that He may abide with you forever.

The Comforter came in with a new and growing power on the memorable day and has continued [illegible] firing the hearts and of [illegible] into all the [illegible] the old story of redemption again and again and presenting it ever new to the hearts of men [illegible] sacred anthems from the waters and preaching practical sermons from the hills making the thunders of Sinai again audible and the sweet whispers of Calvary to enter the soul.

From the glimmering dawn of Christendom the progress of Pentecostal power has brought us into the bright light of a glorious day. Depending on Christ who ascended to the father and now sits on high and in whom all power is given both in heaven and in earth who sent us again the Comforter believing praying faithful followers have done greater works than these in establishing churches publishing Bibles promoting the gospel sending out missionaries and bringing salvation to [illegible] until today millions bow the knee and confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the Glory of God the Father.

But the half has not yet been told. The fields are white for the harvest but the laborers are few. There is much to do before Jesus comes again. May this Pentecostal Year draw us all closer in one accord and so renew revive and regenerate our churches that the fire may fall and the power be felt and greater works be done.

Two Congregations Here Form from Parent Church

Oakland, Greenwood Evangelical Groups Are Off-Shoots of Calvary on East Church St, Rev E Radebaugh Is Present Pastor, Dates Back 46 Years

FROM Calvary Evangelical church at East Church and High sts. have spread two other congregations in Marion — Oakland Evangelical church at Bellefontaine and Christian sts and Greenwood Evangelical church at Greenwood and Mark sts. The Rev E Radebaugh is present pastor of the church.

Although the history of the Evangelical church in Marion dates back only 46 years its strength is recognized in church circles over the state.

Weekly prayer meetings at the home of Isaac Shupp on North State st. in the fall of 1884 led to the establishment of a local Evangelical church. The present Calvary Evangelical church stands on the site of the original lot purchased for $1 200. A frame building costing $4 300 was the first church.

Dedicated in 1885

The church was dedicated free from debt Feb 22 1885 as Calvary Evangelical Mission church. Present day ministers wonder at the salary of early ministers. The Rev E M Spreng the first regularly appointed pastor to Calvary church received but $450 a year in salary. The congregation numbered 30 persons at the close of the first conference year.

The first church was entirely rebuilt under the pastorate of the Rev J Wengerd at a cost of $5 500 and was rededicated in 1901 by the Rev S P Spring now Bishop Spring. In the fall of 1904 the membership had grown sufficiently that the conference was asked to make Marion a station instead of a mission church. It was at this time that the pastor's salary was increased from $550 to $650 a year. This same year a lot was purchased just east of the corner site and the present Calvary church covers this combined territory.

With the continued growth of the church a basement was excavated in 1908 and made into a Sunday school department. It was not uncommon to have more than 600 present at the Sunday school services while many time hundreds were turned away for lack of room at church services or special occasions.

Work was begun in April 1917 on the present Calvary church building classic in design and following the lines of the Temple of the Holy Land. The dome of Calvary church is an especially beautiful point in the architectural design.

Build Greenwood Church

Members of Calvary church who lived a distance from the up town church realized the need for a church on the north side of town and in June 1915 the modern brick and stone Greenwood Evangelical church was erected with the Rev C A Lang as pastor. First services were held in a smaller tabernacle before it was torn down and the new church erected. In 1916 the parsonage on Mark st was built. The Rev Irvin Kauffman is the present pastor.

Still many of Calvary's congregation lived at a distance and these people banded together and organized the Calvary Church Mission, now Oakland Evangelical church. The first place of worship was a bungalow building and the first services were held there in June 1918. Later the present church edifice was built. The Rev H E Williamson is pastor of the church. The building that was used as the Calvary Mission church has been moved to another lot and is occupied as the church parsonage.

About a year ago the conference voted to take the Herman Street Community into the Evangelical denomination and the community church is now Grace Evangelical church with the Rev J E Campbell as pastor.

The Rev C I Allen who was former pastor of Calvary church is now pastor of the Miller Avenue Evangelical church in Columbus.

schedule the city pays for its electricity.

Very little difference exists in the propositions of the electric company and the franchise committee, members of the city committee said today. Meetings next week are expected to span this difference and the rate agreed upon by both city and company officials will be aired before city council.

"The committee wants to secure a rate that is both satisfactory to the city and the company and will try to get such a rate as soon as possible," W. G. Slack, member of the franchise committee, said today.

"We aim to protect the small average home user as well as the big user and feel that this will be accomplished in the next few meetings with company officials," he said.

Franchises and rate contracts the C., D. & M. Electric Co. held with the city expired this year. The company furnishes current here for both domestic use and street lighting purposes.

APPROPRIATION BILL FAR ABOVE BUDGET

Rivers and Harbors Program Passed by House, Now Up to Senate.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26— A rivers and harbors improvement program authorizing an expenditure next year of more than twice the amount approved by the budget bureau today awaited senate action before being sent along to the White House and a process of elimination intended to keep the outlay within the budget estimates.

Anxious to avoid a deficit at the close of the fiscal year of 1931, the administration plans to defer the execution of projects not deemed immediately necessary and in this way prevent the year's expenditures for this purpose from exceeding the sum set apart for it.

This was announced authoritatively late yesterday just before the house placed its approval on the program in a session which heard charges of deception, bribery and pork barrel legislation. As passed by the house the measure included the provision that the federal government take over the Erie-Oswego barge canal, which had been vigorously opposed by western members.

The bill would provide an expenditure of $111,000,000 as opposed to the budget bureau's estimate of $55,000,000. It makes provision for 154 projects and 346 surveys, including $29,266,400 for deepening the channels in the Great Lakes, $190,000 for beginning the development of a 27-foot channel on the St. Lawrence river between Lake Ontario and Ogdensburg, N. Y., and $7,500,000 for the completion of the Illinois waterway.

The administration plans to separate the projects and surveys into three categories—those considered necessary and urgent, those held to be necessary but not urgent, and those expected to become urgent and necessary in time.

Don't foolishly crave excitement. That is chiefly what keeps the bad place going.

The mail will be picked up there and taken down the west coast of South America to Santiago, Chile, and thence across the Andes to Buenos Aires.

He is scheduled to leave Cristobal on the return trip to Miami Thursday, arriving here late Friday.

Colonel Lindbergh arrived here at 4:57 p. m. yesterday after a flight from Washington in his specially built plane. He negotiated the southward journey in seven hours and 10 minutes, at an average speed of 117½ miles an hour for the 900 mile distance.

Colonel Lindbergh piloted the first airmail plane to go from Miami to the canal zone in February, 1929, and acted in similar capacity last September to inaugurate airmail service between Miami and Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, through the West Indies.

no evidence of sorrow, no pathetic scenes, no relatives present.

Wreath on Each Body

A single wreath of flowers was placed on top of each box. Six sailors carried each casket to the grave. Soldiers and sailors stood on guard at the bier.

Over the grave Chaplain K. F. Wall of the prison said these words: "Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust, in sure and certain hope of resurrection."

Father Albert O'Brien, a Catholic priest, and Rabbi Jacob Tarshish also participated in the burial ceremonies.

The investigation as revealed by testimony before the board of inquiry up to the session's close yesterday failed to uncover anything that would indicate the cause of the fire, which had its origin in the roof of G and H cell block.

The governor in studying the report from which he must make a finding will have only the contradicting statements of prison officials, guards and convicts concerning efforts to rescue the smothering men. Some of the witnesses gave the opinion that most if not all of the men could have been saved had the cage door leading to the cells been opened promptly and others blamed arrangements between the guards for the delay. He is expected to make his decision Monday.

Contradicts Others

The final witness yesterday, Guard Hubert J. Richardson, however, startled the questioners with the statement that the door in question was never kept locked.

The investigators did not indicate whether their report would recommend changes in the administrative personnel of the penitentiary. It was believed certain, however, that the cause of the fire would be gone into.

Although leaders of the insurgent prisoners have said that no violence is planned in their passive resistance program, an augmented guard remained at the penitentiary today to handle the 4,577 prisoners within the walls. There were 99 penitentiary guards, while 525 national guardsmen and 40 officers were stationed on the outside, ready for any emergency that might arise. During the week there were as many as 1,150 guardsmen and 117 officers on duty. The officers included sheriff's deputies and Columbus city police.

Daily Proverb — Desertion of a [illegible] tested friend [illegible] an immortal stain

The glitter of gems is said to have been lacking at the opening of the Washington grand opera season this week. The feeling of Washington society women seems to be that it is better not to wear jewels in public places and have them than wear them and have them taken away through the hold up route

The school authorities of Richmond Virginia, have barred newly wed teachers holding that spinsters are more valuable as educators. Yet it might be held that the fact that spinsters are spinsters goes to show that they are woefully lacking in the arts and ways which bring the members of their sex their most prized rewards

Chairman Britten, of the house naval committee, plans to precipitate a finish fight on the floor of the house over the question as to whether the United States should abandon its cruiser building policy and build more six inch than eight inch gun cruisers. History seemingly is about to repeat itself

A member of a good will party of Chicagoans told a gathering of Oklahomans out in Tulsa that Chicago was neither a criminal city nor broke. Possibly it was to prove the latter contention that he went on to state that booze cost the city $30,000,000 last year half the sum being expended for liquor and the other half for bribery and pay for hired assassins

Nine Rules for Keeping Husbands.

If any member of the California Federation of Women's Clubs hereafter loses her husband—of course, it should be understood that reference is made here only to those thus blessed—either by having him walk out on her or by being won away by some charmer, it's her own fault. It will be simply because of the fact that she neglected to follow the nine sure rules for keeping a husband divulged to those in attendance at the annual convention of that organization held in Del Monte last week

It can hardly be said that the rules embodied in the prescription to keep husbands contented and faithful are as a whole complimentary to us men folks but here they are just as presented to the gathering by former Past President Jennie Partridge of the city and county federation of San Francisco

1 Dress prettily for breakfast
2 Never make your husband dry dishes
3 Friend husband should take you out just two evenings a week. The rest of the time let him stay home
4 The wife should pay the rent grocery and butcher bills before dolling up or even buying new furniture
5 Never permit mother in law to visit on Sundays or holidays
6 Listen to your husband if he likes the sound of his own voice
7 Ask his advice on everything
8 Be dependent and clinging but not too clinging
9 Make him think you are a [illegible] weak creature and he is nine feet high with the strength of a lion and the courage of a Napoleon

Of course some cautious critic may want to know where Miss Partridge got [illegible]. Some may even be sufficiently unfeeling to tell her to do a little performing along the husband keeping line before she [illegible] really advising others but she wouldn't mind little things such as these. Hasn't she before her the examples of the women sent out by the government to teach farm wives of the Middle West how to cook? Can she not point to a number of states which send out social workers to instruct women how to manage their household affairs despite the fact that many of those sent out as instructors were never bright shining successes at managing their own? And then she has also the precedent of the elderly maiden ladies in the employment of the government down in Washington who are telling the wives of the land how to bear feed and bring up babies

And when all is said can not Miss Partridge cite the fairly well established fact that people rather generally talk most about that of which they know the least? Of course she can.

Following the Wrong Course.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper [illegible] refused to be rushed into hasty action [illegible] abandoning of judgment and the will [illegible] of punishment in connection with the Ohio penitentiary horror of Monday night as he believes will be approved in the calm judgment of the people of Ohio. It would have been a sad mistake we feel to have granted any of the demands of the prisoners in advance of the report of the investigating commission named by him

The original demands were that the death sentence of John Richardson found guilty of murder be commuted to life imprisonment that the Ohio board of clemency be immediately removed and that an unlimited and immediate supply of tobacco be provided for the inmates within the penitentiary. According to these demands which would have nullified the verdict of the jury in the trial of Richardson and the sentence of the court would have made the [illegible] of the prisoners paramount to the laws of the state

It is evident that the prisoners themselves realized that their demands were impossible of serious consideration for in a petition addressed to the Citizens of Ohio and America prepared [illegible] subsequent to the making of their original ultimatum the demands set up were these:

1 That Warden [illegible] never return to the penitentiary except as an inmate
2 That the parole board be increased from two to twelve honest members
3 That the prisoners be paid an honest wage for their labor
4 That good time deductions from sentences be restored

There may be merit in the charges made by a number of the prisoners who appeared before the governor's commission that the inmates of the penitentiary have been the objects of mistreatment. It may be true that cruelties have been practiced and that many have been the victims of brutal treatment if no harsher term may be used. There may be ground for a revision of the entire prison system and the policies and practices of the prison's government. There may be reason for the removal of the warden and some or all of the members of his corps of aides. But those matters are for the determination of the governor after coming into possession of his commission's report and not before and not for the determination of the prisoners who are at present in revolt passive though it may be against the rules and regulations of the institution to which they have been committed by the processes of the law

The day following the fire the prisoners had the sympathy of the entire state which was won by the splendid heroism many of them displayed the night before. That sympathy went out to all of the men despite the sinister acts of a few of them. But that sympathy that kindly feeling of Ohioans has not been augmented by their subsequent course despite the fact that there is general understanding throughout the state that the radical element in the penitentiary is responsible for the mutiny now on. The many are suffering for the course of the few just as sympathy was felt for the many as the result of the heroic acts of the comparatively few

By their revolt against authority and by their threats the prisoners are alienating public sympathy. If they would preserve it they should cease trying to take advantage of an unfortunate situation to accomplish the changes they seek relying on an aroused public opinion to do more for the betterment of their condition than they could possibly accomplish by their present course

Candidates for office are so scarce in North Bergen New Jersey that Democratic leaders there are advertising for seven men to accept nominations for the mayoralty and six commissionerships. Who ever imagined the existence of a community with such a dearth of patriots?

Because of the wave of robberies and burglaries there the police authorities of Waukegan Illinois propose to enforce the old time curfew law of the city which bars children under sixteen years of age from the streets after 11 p m and call for the arrest of all persons loitering on the streets after 1 o'clock in the morning. Why with a lot of people that just about the time the night has begun

Portugal exacts a license fee of $1 0 a year from any person making use of a patent cigar and cigaret lighter and failure to produce the license on the request of a policeman or excise official results in the seizure of the lighter and a fine of $[illegible]. The supervisor of census taking in the lower north side of Chicago has asked for the arrest of approximately [illegible] persons for evading the census enumerators. The government must count upon the hearty support and cooperation of the municipal authorities. It wouldn't be anything like Chicago to permit 70,000 to evade doing their share toward boosting her population figures

The Ohio prison disaster is producing the [illegible] aftermath of efforts looking to better the lives of prisoners in the penitentiaries of the various states and [illegible] committee in Washing[illegible] [illegible] seven [illegible]

OPPOSES GAS PROPOSITION

Editor Star—Regarding the proposal of the Ohio Fuel Gas company for a new franchise with the city council at increased rates I can see no reason why council should even discuss this matter. The rates are now much higher than they should be and there is certainly no reason why they should be increased. When the gas lines were first laid in the city labor was very cheap the men getting [illegible] per day. When the original company sold out to the Logan Gas company, the valuation was fixed with the cost of the lines based on higher labor costs. No doubt when the Logan Gas company was sold to the Ohio Fuel Gas company the value of the lines was based on still higher labor rates for replacement

Now it does not follow that the people of this city should be forced to pay large returns on an excessive valuation for which there is no basis. If the present owners paid more for the gas lines than they were worth that is their misfortune and they should charge off the difference to profit and loss and they will find then that they are getting a sufficient return on their actual value

It seems that every few years the Gas company is reorganized and the name changed, the valuation boosted and then they want higher rates to pay a return on the watered stock. The pitiful plea they presented to council that they would be satisfied with a return of $8,000 per year on an investment of $87[illegible]000 is ridiculous. If they lost $8,000 in the last year they should follow the example of all successful business concerns and reduce the expenses rather than increasing their income and overcharging the people of the city

STILL MORE OPPOSITION

Editor Star—A few years ago our city solicitor realizing his duty to the people who elected him to office and having a sense of justice and fair play became the leader in the fight against increased gas rates in Marion and other Ohio cities. The overwhelming victory at the polls in 1928 that sent him to congress is highly sufficient proof that the people of Marion are disgusted with the never ending tendency of the public utilities to seek increased rates. Now with victory in sight, are we going to lay down our arms and surrender thereby losing all we have gained and more?

The Ohio Fuel Gas company puts forth the argument that the supply is insufficient to meet the requirements of the consumers. In the last four years I have never been inconvenienced by the lack of gas and I live on the opposite side of town from where the gas mains enter the city. Granting however that their statement is true why does the gas company try to get their customers to install gas furnaces since this would further cut down the supply? This argument seems merely another attempt to get that which they will lose in the courts

Our council is the guardian of the public welfare of our city and it would be highly commendable in it and would prove its loyalty to its trust should it not even consider this last proposal of the Ohio Fuel Gas company

Avoid a Weak Heart.

BY ROYAL S COPELAND M D

Good health of the heart depends very much upon the general good health of an individual. If you will take care of the simple things in daily living the big things will take care of themselves. Eating the right food getting proper exercise to keep the body in good order and having adequate sleep and rest. These have a direct bearing upon heart health and general health alike

The heart which is the engine of your body does a wonderful piece of work for you. It pumps away day and night to make possible all the things you wish to do

Like any other machine it must have its rest periods. It too suffers from the wear and tear of life. Of course it never does stop beating but nature has provided a time for it to slow down and recuperate. This it does during sleep

The heart is made up of muscles which contract and expand in a rhythmical beat. Under normal conditions the heart rests one tenth of a second after each beat. This short rest permits it to store up sufficient energy for its contraction period

You can not be well nourished strong and full of energy unless your heart is able to do its full duty. It can not do its duty unless the heart muscles are well nourished and vigorous

What the heart will or will not do depends on the heart muscles. The heart doing its work as it does by the action of its muscles can not work properly unless they are adequately fed regularly exercised and guarded against poisoning through toxic substances set up in the body or by other poisons

The food we eat must be prepared by the blood. The blood can not do its good work unless it has a good heart to send it throughout the body. The heart too has to be properly fed and nourished

Today, when the fad is to be thin many a poor heart is undernourished. Underfeeding is bound to make the heart suffer

For the muscles of the body and muscles of the heart we need protein foods for tissue building—lean meats milk cheese the cereals and eggs. There must be regular intake of these foods or the heart grows weak

The heart is hooked up with the body so that it shares all the benefits as well as all the disadvantages of the body. When you have poisons in the body, arising from chronic sores bad teeth and tonsils chronic indigestion and constipation the chances are that soon your heart will feel the bad effects

Some mineral poisons have a way of undermining the heart action. Lack of iron in the food is another factor

When you walk run or indulge in sports the heart beats faster with shorter rest periods in consequence. A great and sudden strain is put upon the heart and it has to accommodate itself to the added burden. If the muscles are fortified by nourishing food and right living you can see that it will be a more efficient machine to bear the great strain put upon it

The emotions have an immediate effect upon the heart. News of an accident to someone near to you or any other emotional experience which brings a sudden strain on the heart is more easily borne by the heart if it is in good condition. When you take care of yourself in what you eat how you exercise how you work and how you rest you are storing up the necessary health and vigor of heart and body necessary for future emergencies

Girls and boys in school and college should realize this. Too often we hear of the boy or girl who has been overdoing in athletics in school or college. Athletics and sports in moderation are exceedingly good but in excess they are harmful to the heart

Vacation time will soon be here. Have a good time and enjoy every moment of it but take your sports in moderation and come home rested and better fit for the daily round of living

The laws of the [illegible] depend upon the higher mathematics [illegible] [illegible] made [illegible] from the measurements [illegible]

Eddington gives an amazing picture of an [illegible] digging down a [illegible]. To the scientist the phenomenon is no [illegible] set of varying pointer readings

There is no way to evade the [illegible] theory of mathematics. If we had the differential equations giving all the facts about a single atom we should be able to reconstruct the universe

[illegible] of the [illegible] played by the higher mathematics in modern life an exceptional interest [illegible] to the history of mathematics [illegible] developments

Much is known about Greek mathematics and many of the greatest chapters in the history of mathematics were written by the Greeks. Little comparatively speaking is known of mathematics before the Greeks. But the barriers are falling beneath the onslaughts of the persistent miners at the foundations of early knowledge

Obscure records now papyri recently discovered remains are throwing new light on the mathematical beginnings and origins. We are learning year by year to piece together a credible history of the origin and early development of the most fundamental of all the sciences

To discover the extent of the knowledge of mathematics among the Babylonians for example the investigator must examine the tablets preserved in the British museum the Prussian State museum the Ottoman museum of Constantinople the University of Strasbourg the University of Pennsylvania and the Palais du Cinquantenaire of Brussels

For a proper understanding of Egyptian mathematics one must study chiefly two papyri the famous Rhind papyrus written about 1650 dating back to an original probably two centuries earlier and the Golenischev papyrus which was written about 1850 B C contemporary with the original of the Rhind papyrus. The former is preserved in the British museum the latter in the Museum of Fine Arts in Moscow

What sort of mathematical problems did those early Babylonians work out? Take the Rhind papyrus for example. More than a fourth of the written part of the papyrus is occupied with a table expressing the number two divided by the various odd numbers from five to 101 inclusive. The method was to express one unit fraction in terms of two or more unit fractions. Thus one reads 1 7 equals 1 14 1 21 1 42 which simply means that one seventh is equal to one fourteenth plus one twenty first plus one one forty second. Some eighty examples or problems appear in the papyrus following the table

Only two general rules are set down in this papyrus. One of these is to get two-thirds of one fifth add together the reciprocals of two times five and six times five. An interesting problem found in this papyrus is A quantity its 2 3 its 1 2 and its 1 7 added together become thirty seven. What is the quantity? By a series of approximations the author of the papyrus finds the answer, which we can easily determine by algebra to be 16 2 97 in the following curious form sixteen plus 1 56 plus 1 679 plus 1 776 — Copyright 1930 International Feature Service Inc

New York Day by Day.

BY O O McINTYRE.

New York April 26—The man who owns and drives a taxicab independently in New York must make a living almost solely on [illegible] one I chatted with last night is to be believed. A taxi must clear a snug amount one day to take care of the overhead before it begins to earn a penny for the driver

There's the promissory note, amounting [illegible] a day in buying the cab depreciation [illegible] gas and oil. Fifteen dollars is charged against [illegible] truck and eight dollars against the day. The heaviest taxi patronage is between 6 and 9 p m and 11 p m and 1 a m

The big bugaboo of charioteers is [illegible] brings business to a minimum. Fares are skittish about slipping on the sidewalk getting to and from cabs and they also [illegible] the danger of skidding. Drivers however [illegible] the greatest danger is after a slight [illegible] causes a slick moisture on asphalt. On the other hand an all day or night downpour provides a gold mine. People who [illegible] ride in taxis use them then. Fifty dollars a week profit is considered a good break but the average is around $35. [illegible] drivers' hours are extremely irregular

The usual tip for a short haul is fifteen cents and twenty five cents for a long one. The most extravagant tippers are young blades out with their girls and fares with alcoholic bursts of generosity. A drunk is usually profitable. Fifteen per cent of all patrons do not tip at all

Two women have been unsuccessful driving cabs on their own. Two Chinese a Japanese a Turk and a Hawaiian own and operate their own cabs. While there are still a number of gyp or run around cabs police vigilance and careful selection have reduced them to a negligible minority

At Forty Fifth street and Fifth avenue [illegible] night a taxi stopped. A policeman from side of the street leaped to the running board. The cab snapped into high gear and with honking jockeyed through traffic. Pedestrians rushed to the curb to gape. Under the Sixth avenue L it poised shot away with a break of lights and halfway to Broadway swerved to the curb. The patrolman dropped from their perches called good night to the driver—and ambled into a speak easy. New York!

The biggest bill of the week was run up by a gentleman from Chicago at a Park avenue Inn. On his second day before dinner he turned on his bath and stretched on the bed for the tub to fill. Three hours later he was awakened from sound sleep by gentlemen in gum boots in the hall. The tub had overflowed and soaked the ceilings and expensive draperies of two apartments below aside from damages to his own suite. His bill was $4,240

On gray drizzling days I frequently slip into a raincoat and with the dog walk in Central park. On such a day recently I found a gentleman huddled up on a bench under an umbrella reading a gloomy biography of Heinie. That is a new high in achieving melancholy solitude

I am always secretly amused at those French menus that skim along like a humming bird featuring oeuffs poche [illegible] d'agneau and jambon York and then suddenly bust out with apple pie

I am also a trifle stubborn about ordering soups with such la de dah labels as Potage Fermiere. They are generally full of everything careful diners shunned the night before

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON

Money madness and materialism with which the United States is supposed to be cursed may be just a false idea that we have allowed to grow under our hats. We are so close to so many things in our own country that it is pretty hard to see things in proportion. There is so much hue and cry about billion dollar mergers chain stores 100-story buildings and 1,000 foot ships that ideals and culture seem to have been forgotten. So we listen hopefully to a visitor who looks us over and thinks differently. More power to him. He is Dr Lafronte new minister from the South American republic of Ecuador. He says the United States is becoming the depository of the world's culture and has a high role to play in the world's future. Lafronte says our materialism is only a legend. He thinks we are really no [illegible] was at all. It's pleasant to hear him say so. Let's hope that the fact he has been in the United States but two months hasn't had much to do with his decision

Let's learn something from Baltimore. The speed with which accused persons are brought to trial in that city has convinced criminals that Baltimore is no place for them. Officials of Baltimore decide the way to show the criminal element that good citizens mean business is to speed up prosecution all along the line

CROUSO HEADS OLDEST DECORATING FIRM

COMPANY ESTABLISHED 28 YEARS AGO

No Job Too Large, None Too Small for Attention

Concern Has Developed Extensive Contracting Business and Has Done Some of the Largest Decorating Jobs in Marion, Carries Full Paint Stock

W. N. Crouso is the owner and managing head of the oldest decorating establishment in the city. This firm had its beginning over twenty-eight years ago in the same building where it is now located 125½ South Main st. and has grown from a small wall paper store with a few patterns to one of the largest contracting firms in the city, handling a full line of up-to-date wall decorations and a line of better quality paints, varnishes and enamels.

No Job Too Large

No contract is too small or none too large for Mr. Crouso to handle as has been demonstrated in the past.

No difference if it is but putting in a pane of glass or the painting and decorating of the exterior or interior of a modern building he is always ready to submit an estimate and if successful will carry it to a satisfactory completion.

Most every school building in Marion has at some time or other been painted on the exterior or decorated on the interior by this firm. Many of the hotels and thousands of private homes as well as several of the larger churches have had the expert treatment of this firm.

Some of the largest contracts let in recent years have gone to Mr. Crouso. The Marion Star building was decorated on the inside and painted on the outside at a cost of over $3,000. The Public Library interior was also decorated by this firm at a cost of over $1,200 and one of the largest if not the largest contracts in the city in the last few years, was the decorating of the weaving department of the Susquehanna Silk mills at a cost of over $5,000. This work took eight men working 10 hours a day three months to complete.

A few years ago when Mr. Crouso was looking over the market for a high standard quality of paints, varnishes and enamels he made a connection with the McDougall-Butler Co. of Buffalo, New York, makers of high quality materials and he found in them just what a first class artisan and decorator would be proud to use on anyone's work.

Crouso Carries Full Line

McDougall-Butler Co. started out to make good paints, varnishes and enamels and then determined to make the best. How well they succeeded can be learned from the testimony of many local satisfied property owners.

Mr. Crouso carries at all times a full line of their quality outside paints, Mattcoa flat wall paint for wall decorating, floor and deck paint for interior and exterior floors, floorolium varnish also for floors and the much advertised Utilvar varnish. Utilvar comes in the clear, light and dark oak, mahogany, cherry and walnut. It is also made in the dull finish which can be used anywhere a good varnish should be used. It was these materials that were used on the Public Library interior and The Marion Star building wood trim and fixtures. Utilvar dull on the wood trim and furniture and Mattcoa flat wall finish on the walls of the library. Utilvar clear in the glass was used on all the wood trim and fixtures of The Star building and McDougall-Butler Buffalo Quality outside paints on the outside of the building.

At present the firm is very busy hanging wall paper and has many painting contracts ready to start as soon as the weather permits.

OHIO BUILDING UP DURING LAST MARCH

Construction For Month Totals $40,177,700, Is Increase Over Year Ago.

Ohio had an outstanding record of building and engineering contracts during March according to F. W. Dodge Corp. The past month's total aggregated $40,177,700, which was more than twice the amount reported in the preceding month and was 30 per cent greater than the March 1929 record. The preceding month's total was $18,848,200, while the March 1929 record amounted to $30,997,800. For the first quarter of this year awards aggregated $83,580,500 as against $77,898,700 for the same period in 1929.

Industrial buildings were the outstanding feature in the March contract total with $12,659,000 or 32 per cent of all construction. Public works and utilities featured second, amounting to $10,181,400 or 25 per cent; residential buildings totaled $6,677,900 or 17 per cent, and educational buildings aggregated $3,457,500 or 9 per cent.

BETTER HOMES WEEK OBSERVANCE URGED

Conditions Surrounding Childhood Shape Development of Wholesome Life.

WASHINGTON, April 26—National Better Homes week, April 27 to May 4, is being observed in every state in the union and by approximately 7,000 communities, according to Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, who succeeded Herbert Hoover as president of Better Homes in America.

"The American Home is the primary source of the sound, practical idealism which has characterized our National life," Dr. Wilbur continues. "The conservation and development of good health and a wholesome outlook upon life and of rugged, untiring virtues and progressive constructive citizenship are largely dependent upon the conditions which surround childhood in the home and neighborhood and upon the attitudes and ideals displayed in the daily routine of home life.

"The movement for Better Homes in America was inspired and developed under the personal leadership of President Hoover, who still serves as its honorary chairman. The contributions which the thousands of local committees are making to civic welfare through their contests for home improvement, their demonstrations of the better types of home design and furnishing and their campaigns for neighborhood protection and development are the product of much thoughtful planning and disinterested and unselfish civic service on the part of community leaders, the professions and the educational groups throughout the country."

New Methods Aid in Waterproofing Cellars

The old method of excavating around the exterior of basement walls to reach and repair cracks and crevices through which water is seeping has given away to the new method of applying waterproofing material to the interior walls and basement floor.

By the old method many times it was necessary to destroy lawns and shrubs and go to considerable expense and trouble with uncertain results. It is difficult to locate the exact spot through which water is seeping as the actual leak may be considerable distance away and the water seeps along under the basement floor till it finds an exit. By a new method all guess work is eliminated. The basement is made permanently waterproof at all points as this liquid seals up every tiny crack and crevice through which water may seep and will not crumble, crack or break away.

Your Cold House May Be Due to Poor Construction

If you had trouble in heating your house during the past winter it is unfair to blame the cause on the heating plant without making a thorough impartial investigation to see if other factors enter to aid in giving you a cold house.

The heating plant of a residence if properly installed should give reliable even heat during the coldest of weather.

When your home is subjected to constant cold check not only into the heating plant but also the windows, the floors and the insulating of the walls. Any of these may be at fault and entirely to blame for those high fuel bills.

The windows may be loose, warped or shrunken. Loose windows allow the ready entrance of cold air and the house on the windward side will generally be cold and drafty if the entrance of air through the windows is permitted. The remedy may be weather stripping, fitting storm windows or replacing the fitting.

Poor floors often allow cold air to creep in, thus disturbing the heating arrangements and causing the fuel bills to mount to an unreasonable figure. Poor floors should be replaced by well seasoned hard wood. If properly installed by an experienced builder using good material your floors should be practically airtight and cold resisting.

Perk Up

WOMEN who believe that there is nothing to do but grow old after the fledglings have tried their wings and found them equal to the flight can do nothing better than fling aside everything else, don their best bib and tucker and journey to the first town in which Mrs Percy V Pennybacker is scheduled to speak. Not that Mrs Pennybacker is of an age to be regarded as being on the shelf for that she will never be, but when one learns of her vast experiences and accomplishments the only conclusion one can arrive at is that she did not receive her high school diploma yesterday. But that is away from the big idea. If you heard her in her lecture at the First Presbyterian church this week weren't your feelings divided between admiration for what she has attained and something akin to envy for the ease and grace with which she delivered her splendid talk. It isn't difficult to understand just why those young American press correspondents were so nice to her at Geneva and why folks in general took the pains to be courteous. All we hope is that when she comes to Marion again we will be here too.

What Next?

THE lily family will in all probability crumple up in disgrace while the garden stuff will no doubt wax snobbish to a point of demanding parking space in the florists windows when it becomes generally known that the lowly onion botanically speaking, is really a lily. Imagine it if you can the fastidious lily sharing the same silver vase or mingling with the guests at a fashionable wedding with the odoriferous onion. Here's the low down: the onion and all its relatives (meaning the leek, garlic, chive and shallot), are found in the natural order Liliaceae, in the botany, and the technical name for the genus is allium. There are a few of the alliums which are purely ornamental plants, grown for their blooms but the main use of the allium genus is in the vegetable line headed Mr Onion.

Won't run any risk of passing us ... the road," Lillian supplemented. ... why?"

I don't know," I said honestly.

"Well, for my part, I'm glad he feels that way," Mary contributed. I ... particularly care for riding on the floor of the car under the blankets all the way to New York, and that's what I'd have to do if there was any chance of his passing us. When do we take the trail?"

"We'll wait fifteen minutes," I decided. "That will give them a good start. And we'll travel slowly also. We have nearly the whole day before us, thanks to our getting up in the middle of the night."

"What I'd like to know," Lillian began, "is why old Phil Veritzen, the Sybarite, should be—"

She stopped short, and with clever pretense veered the subject to a discussion of the sandwiches before us. But I had caught the slightest flickering of her eyelids toward Mary, and I knew that her sudden switching of the subject had been due solely to the girl's presence. Was it because of a wish to spare Mary a reference to the man whom she disliked or did she have some subtle reason which she did not wish to put into words in the girls' hearing?

At any rate, the "eight clamlets" which she had laughingly told Philip Veritzen she meant to emulate were patently still her pattern, for she spoke but rarely during our stay at the garage restaurant, nor indeed during the rest of the journey.

But her eyes were working double time. I realized that as we slowed down and came to a stop at the crossing of boulevards near Englewood, from which cars descend to the Dyckman street ferry. I heard her voice in quick decisive command:

"Mary! Under the blankets! Pronto!"

There was a rustling sound as Mary obeyed without comment. Then Lillian spoke softly to me.

"In the ferry line, coming up. Look!"

The Rendezvous

I obeyed her and saw a black roadster, which, if not the one which had trailed us, was indubitably its twin. But as it drew nearer I saw that the private detective, who, according to our calculations, was already in New York, sat behind the wheel.

Our car was drawn up behind a big truck and another car was at our left. I hoped tensely that the man in the line from the ferry, who was rushing to get past the corner while the green light was on, would not see us, and there was no indication as he passed that he had done so. But my long breath of thankfulness was scarcely exhaled before Lillian's voice said surprisingly:

"Cut over to the right and follow him, keeping as much out of sight as you can. I have a hunch."

I obeyed her without question, and with Lillian's aid was able to keep the black roadster in view while keeping back of intervening cars. Fortunately, when at the foot of the hill in Englewood it turned into the main street, there were still cars behind us, and we were able to pull out and stop abruptly, when almost a block ahead of us we saw the black roadster swing to the curb and stop.

"I thought so!" Lillian said with a pardonable little note of triumph in her voice. "Look, Madge! That car at the curb just ahead of him—isn't that the Veritzen bus?"

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Saturday when me and Jubilee woke up thinking about Annabelle Lee, and it was another bright and bammy day, and I told Jubilee that Annabelle Lee certainly picked out nice weather to be sick in. He didn't say anything. I bet he is wondering what it is all about. All he knows is that I was feeling offal bad and he was sorry for me. Annabelle Lee wasn't anything in his young life; it was me he felt bad about, but I don't feel bad any more. But I will be glad when Annabelle Lee is at home again, and I will always mind her when my mother wants me to. I always have. If I hadn't I would've been sorry.

When I had milked the cows and fed my face my mother and grandfather and ant went out and got in the auto and left me to clean the stable, and when I got that done me and the bunch and our dogs hiked out for the hospital. We were just going in when we saw someone coming and we stopped, and it was Podgeen Dooley and his sister and his father and mother, and they looked like they had put on all the clothes in the neighborhood. Mr. Dooely had on a plug hat and a long tailed coat, and Mrs. Dooley had on a long dress that was as big around at the bottom as a wagon wheel, by bottom I mean the part nearest the ground, and his sister was all dressed up. Podgeen hollered to me and they all had bokays, and they had just heard about Annabelle Lee, and they asted me all about her, and every little while Mr. Dooley would break in on what I was saying and say. "Aw, go to hell now!" but it didn't sound like swearing: it sounded like he was offal sorry and didn't know any other way to show it.

They all went up in the hospital, and the head nurse remembered them and was glad to see them, and my teacher took the bokays and told them they might go in for a few minutes, and Mrs. Dooley kissed my mother and called her "Acushla" and my mother cried on her shoulder. Then Mrs. Dooley and Podgeen's sister looked at Annabelle Lee and held up their hands and began to say how beautiful she looked. I never did hear anybody praised so much. Mr. Dooley said to my teacher, "And is it you that are the nurse?" and she said it was, and he said, "I hope if ever I need a nurse heaven will send me you," and she said, "Mr. Dooley I'd leave my job to nurse you any time." He grabbed his plug hat and poked it at her and said, "Hold this!" "Where are you going?" she asked. "Faith I'm going out to fall off the building," he said, and then everyone laughed, and she said he must have kissed the Blarney stone. Then we got Podgeen and went to the back of the poorhouse and all over. We had a swell day.

DRAMATIC STORY OF ACTION, ROMANCE AND ADVENTURE

BY RICHARD STARR

(Copyright 1930, by the Author)

CHAPTER 25

A Nice Old Gentleman

JACQUELINE'S experience with faints was far more extensive than Mr. Carew and she knew exactly what to do for the old man.

She unfastened his tight collar and dipped her handkerchief in the water in the ditch nearby and applied it to his forehead.

Soon he returned to consciousness and in the light from the headlights of the overturned automobile saw the features of Jacqueline as she knelt beside him, supporting his head in the hollow of her arm.

"Feel better now?" she asked, as if she were speaking to a child.

"Yes," he answered faintly. "I am much better now and I thank you very much for your kind and eager help. My dear, you are rather wonderful—a young gil like you, and a little thing—the way you got me out from under that car."

After a brief consideration, Jacqueline decided that as he was quite old, there was no objection to his terms of endearment. He looked like a nice old gentleman.

She was busy now wiping the blood from his face and picking out splinters of glass. The side of his head was cut and the blood had stained his white hair and run down his cheeks. She could see, however, that it was only a superficial wound.

"My dear, you are very good," he murmured, as she cleverly bound up his head with his handkerchief. "I think I could walk to your house if you would be good enough to help me."

"I don't think you could," replied Jacqueline. "Because all the house I've got is in London, and that's about 45 miles away from here, I believe."

"London! But there is a house close by, isn't there? You must have come from a neighboring house?"

"I didn't," returned the girl, still busy with her bandaging. "I was sitting on the stile down the road when you came by. I was afraid you were asking for trouble the way you were going. By the way, there isn't anybody else under that car, I suppose?"

"No I was quite alone, my dear."

"Then you ought to know better, charging about the country like that, in a fog. At your age, too! I could understand it if you were a young fellow like Teddy."

"Who is Teddy?"

"He's a boy I know."

"A nice boy?"

"No so bad as boys go," answered Jacqueline, turning her head away. The old gentleman's eyes were fixed on her eager young face. As his head became clearer he found the situation more and more astonishing.

"I have a son named Teddy," he remarked.

"A nice son?" asked Jacqueline.

"Not so bad as sons go," replied the old gentleman with a twinkle.

"I think you are getting better." She removed the support of her arm carefully. "There, now you look like a wounded soldier—one of the old soldiers who never die, they say. I must think what I am to do with you, because I don't know where on earth we are, and how far it is to the nearest house."

The old gentleman looked his amazement. "But what are you doing out here alone, if, as you say, you live in London, and are not located, as it were, hereabouts?"

"I —was out for a walk, a sort of picnic," replied Jacqueline. "And I got lost. I was just sitting on the stile thinking things over when you came song. It's a good job for you I happened to be lost here."

"It is a good job, indeed," replied the injured man. "But I don't understand, my dear."

"Never mind. You don't have to understand."

He was looking at her clothes. He could see her plainly. He found it difficulty to reconcile them with the facts. They bore the mark of quality.

"Now," said Jacqueline, "you are to sit here and not move till I come back. I am going to get help for you. I'll run all the way."

She vanished in the fog.

She did not have to go far before she found the beginnings of a village. She knocked up the first lighted cottage, and was told, to her relief, that there was a doctor who lived not far down the road.

He proved to be a man of action. He had a small car out in a minute, and drove off for the scene of the accident. On the way Jacqueline told him she wanted to get back to London right away.

"If you really must get back to London," the doctor said, "I think you can just about do it. When we have got this gentleman back, my man will drive you to the main line station, and you will just have about time to catch the mail."

The injured man was brought to the doctor's house without much trouble, and Jacqueline waited just long enough to hear the report that the injury was not of a serious nature.

The injured man was surprised that the girl was going, but apparently too drowsy to contest the point.

"I hope to have the pleasure of seeing you again," he said. "You have done more for me than you seem to realize, and I should like to have a further opportunity of expressing my gratitude. Here is my card. Will you promise either to come and see me, or to ring me up so that I can come and see you. I really must see you again, you have been so kind."

Jacqueline promised. She was driven to the station and caught her train. She arrived at the Majestic at 8 o'clock in the morning, after a sufficiently exciting and tiring night. She wondered how Mr. Carew was getting on, and whether he was still out in the fog. She hoped so.

To Be Continued.

TO DISCUSS TAX PROPOSAL

Manufacturers Association To Consider Recommendation to Governor Cooper.

Discussion of the recently passed Ohio tax amendment and a probable recommendation to Governor Cooper's committee investigating how the amendment will be applied will occupy the spotlight of the Central Ohio Manufacturers meeting in the Elks Club at Bucyrus next Wednesday, according to word received by Fred Scherff, secretary of the local manufacturers association.

A committee composed of members of the Central Ohio Manufacturers' association, which has been investigating what things will be taxable under the new law, and how the law should be applied, will report at the meeting on which the recommendation to the governor's committee will be heard.

William N. McNair, recognized tax authority and Pittsburgh attorney, will tell how the Pennsylvania plan of taxation is handled.

A large delegation of local manufacturers will be asked to attend the meeting, Mr. Scherff said. Representatives of every factory will be urged to attend.

The Director Speaks—
"We've got something more thrilling than anything ever seen on film—a terrific airplane dog fight with the planes swooping in and around canyons grazing the tree tops. The slightest mistake at the 'stick' meant instant death!
"I got a stiff call-down from the studio for sending Buddy Rogers in to this—and I wouldn't do it again for a million dollars. Neither would Buddy!
"But we got what we were after! Audiences will get the gasp of their lives!
"We've got the greatest stunt stuff ever filmed—and anybody who knows me knows I don't boast."
—— that's William Wellman, director of 'Young Eagles,' talking across the luncheon table, folks! He didn't know we were going to quote him — that's the straight — from the-shoulder truth about 'Young Eagles' by its director — the same man who made 'Wings.'

GRAF IN ENGLAND ON GOOD WILL TRIP

Wartime Scene Reenacted by German Craft in Cause of Peace.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 26—Tens of thousands of Londoners who once knew the roar of the wartime Zeppelins today watched the dirigible Graf Zeppelin as she circled low over the British capital on a voyage of friendship and good will.

The Graf, coming from Fredrichshafen and en route to Cardington, where the British dirigible R-100 is housed, made her first appearance over London shortly before 4 o'clock. It was accompanied by six airplanes. The Graf sailed over the football field at Wembley where thousands had gathered for the football cup final, and then passed over Central London.

Swinging to the south of London, the Zeppelin then circled in the direction of the old city and flew directly over the offices of the Associated Press. She was at a very low altitude.

The Graf Zeppelin circled St. Paul's cathedral, flew over the west end, and then headed for Cardington where her master, Dr. Hugo Eckener, is on a visit and will be picked up for the return trip to Germany tonight.

AUXILIARY MEETS

Women's Group of Mail Clerks Association Has Session.

Resolutions asking the public to use uniform size greeting cards and post cards were adopted at a meeting of the auxiliary to the Marion Railway Mail Clerks association last night with Mrs. J. R. Shipley, Edgewood dr. The auxiliary adopted this resolution because of the unnecessary work required in handling the mails in a season of special greetings when thousands of cards are handled at the local postoffice.

CLAIM MARGIN FOR PARKER REJECTION

Enough Votes Assured, Say Opponents; Up Before Senate Monday.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26—Enough votes to reject the nomination of Judge John J. Parker, as an associate justice of the supreme court, were claimed today by the senate group which is opposing his confirmation.

Administration leaders refused to admit defeat, but frankly conceded that a hard, uphill battle was in prospect. A move to have President Hoover withdraw the nomination, to which vigorous objection has been raised by labor and negro organizations, was supported by some members of the regular Republican bloc.

Taking up the Parker case on Monday, opposing forces in the senate will come to grips with a supreme court nomination at stake, for the second time within a few months. In February a bitter battle was waged over the appointment of Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice and a vote of confirmation was obtained only after a rapidly growing opposition had threatened to bring about the rejection of the nomination.

The fundamental of the Parker controversy is much the same as that which underlay the contest over Chief Justice Hughes—liberal against conservative opinion.

In the face of the move for withdrawal of the nomination President Hoover is standing firmly behind his nominee. If the chief executive takes such action, senate Republicans believe, it will come only after he has been definitely informed that an absolute majority is certain against Judge Parker.

Palace Cowboy Show Better Than Usual

ANOTHER of the typical "blood and thunder" wild west shows with a perhaps better than usual rate plot woven in makes "Light of the Western Stars" a better picture than the average one of its type.

A crooked sheriff, a murdered cowpuncher, a drunken cowboy provide most of the setting for the plot revolving around the sister of the murdered man. George Arlen in the role of the murdered cowpuncher's best friend does a little detective work and some fast shooting to trap the double crossing "right arm of the law" in the person of the sheriff. Arlen's ride on a stampeding horse to break up an attack on the ranch house will excite anyone who likes to see fast action and daring recklessness.

Harry Green, comedian, in the part of Pie-Pan adds a touch of comedy to the show. The show is better than usual for the wild west type. R. K.

The Marion Is Good Entertainment

SAY, here's entertainment, the real thing for an evening after a day in a hot kitchen or a stuffy office. Sue Carol's name precedes that of Dixie Lee in the casting of "The Big Party," but the picture belongs to Dixie. It's at the Marion tonight.

Dixie's one of those blonds that can act, talks well, and sings in a throaty way. She steals the show from the cast. The story is about three shop girls, Dixie, Sue and Dorothy Brown. Sue and Dixie work in a five and dime store, but Dixie's fired because she refuses the advances of a cheap customer and slaps the manager when he suggests an intimate supper party for two.

There's a party in the girl's rooms that night and Dixie meets Frank Albertson and immediately does a love-flop for him. He gets her a job in a swank dress salon. The backer sets eyes on her and immediately makes her the official entertainer for the company with an apartment of her own and all the gorgeous clothes she wants.

Her boy friend, Frank, and his friend, Richard Keene, go to rescue her from a wild party. The rescue and final clinch are punchy and they're funny. The dialogue throughout is filled with zippy repartee from the girls and boys. Almost forgot, "Whispering" Jack Smith is in the cast as a love-sick friend of the Brown girl.

The young people can appreciate this picture, and the old folks will enjoy it, for it bubbles over with youth and vivacity.

Rudy Vallee is not so hot in a short picture. An Aesop's fable and comedy short complete the bill. But where was our old stand-by and world traveler, the news reel?

CAPONE'S BROTHER FACES PRISON TERM

"Bottles" Convicted of Income Tax Violation in Opening of Federal Drive.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 26—Another of the Capones has heard a jury brand him "guilty."

Ralph, eldest of the younger brothers of "Scarface Al," stood before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's bench yesterday and heard himself convicted of violating the income tax law.

Guilty on all seven counts of the indictment, the jury found, chief of which was the one charging "Bottles" with making false statements in an offer of compromise.

In sentencing the younger Capone on May 16, if the formal plea for a new trial is denied, Judge Wilkerson under the law can impose a prison term of 42 years by making the sentences on each of the seven counts run consecutively.

Custom in the past, however, has been to impose sentence on the major infraction—in Capone's case, his false testimony in the compromise offer. The penalty for this is 10 years and $10,000 fine. Pending sentence, Capone is at liberty on bonds of $25,000.

The verdict against Capone is the first major result of the government's drive against income tax violators in Chicago. Others to come up for trial are Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan, brewery owners and gangland "gentlemen."

Ralph is the reputed overseer of the Capone "interests" in Cicero, one of the family's suburban bailiwicks, best known of which is the Cotton club.

PIRATES SPRING BIG SURPRISE IN LEAGUE

Doped To Be Rather Weak From Injuries, They Pace Most of the Circuit.

[illegible] Pirates [illegible] large part [illegible] With [illegible] coming [illegible] Yankees and [illegible] New York Giants in the National [illegible]

[illegible] Remy Kremer, Larry French and [illegible] Brame have been [illegible] a great job carrying the pitching [illegible] Yesterday they had [illegible] with [illegible] George Grantham [illegible] the [illegible] missing [illegible] delayed home [illegible] lost.

[illegible] Boston [illegible] Dazzy Vance and [illegible] Braves 5 to 1.

Ruth Gets Homer

Babe Ruth's first home run of the [illegible] two extra inning games were the leading features of the American league program. The Babe connected for his first four bagger in the [illegible] inning of the Yankees clash with the Boston Red Sox to give them [illegible] to 2 [illegible] after Harry [illegible] and Milton Gaston of Boston had staged a great mound duel.

The Cleveland Indians had to go the same distance to beat their former teammate George Uhle pitching for Detroit by a 5 to 4 count. Willis Hudlin likewise pitched well but careless fielding by the Indians gave Detroit an early lead and a three run rally in the [illegible] barely put them into the running.

Washington's surprising Senators went to the top of the American league misplacing the champion Philadelphia Athletics by a 6 to 4 victory in a nip and tuck game. The Athletics took the lead when they staged a four run rally against a [illegible] in the sixth but Washington came back two innings later to drive old Jack Quinn from the mound with three runs.

Walter Stewart St Louis southpaw held the Chicago White Sox in almost complete subjection while the Browns took a 4 to 2 decision. Dave Harris a rookie from the Pacific coast league who appeared as pinch hitter produced both the Chicago runs with a homer.

KAUFFMAN WINS GO WITH JOE BANASKI IN MAT HEADLINER

Batters and Bangs Way to Victory, Gentle John Kilonis Pins Indian

BY KARL R McELROY

Sports Writer The Star

CLIFF KAUFFMAN, that modest Iowa boy who was considered a Columbus listing [illegible] carried his battle to regain his lost standing in the lightheavy ranks a forward another notch when he trounced Joe Banaski in a [illegible] at the [illegible] Criswell's Steam Shovel mat card.

The boys wasted no time and the [illegible] was [illegible] minutes of the most exciting arm twisting seen in the Marion ring this season.

In the first fall Kauffman [illegible] easily the master of the big two gun man from Chicago. Showing great respect for each others [illegible] the boys sparred around some time before Kauffman opened up. A series of flying headlocks five in number had Banaski on his uppers.

The Chicagoan blocked the sixth flying hold with a body slam and the tide of the battle changed for a few seconds while the Iowan took a [illegible] bringing. Kauffman countered with another flying headlock that ended in a crab hold. The fall lasted just 16 minutes.

Banaski apparently had been using just one of his guns during the first fall. In the second he was over Kauffman like a blanket on a cold night. It was plenty rough with the Chicagoan not forgetting how to use his knees and hands. A series of headlocks and a knee to the stomach quieted Kauffman in four minutes.

Even the third fall looked bad for Kauffman. He was being tossed around quite a bit before he finally countered Banaski's efforts to obtain a crab hold with a hard shove into the air. Banaski was momentarily stunned and six minutes after the start it was all over.

John Kilonis whose first appearance here ended in an indefinite suspension last night took the measure of One Punch Chief War Eagle. The match was rough but Kilonis was tame in comparison with his former bouts. He knocked the wind out of the Indian and then pinned him with a headlock after 18 minutes of their 30 minute semi final go.

Farmer Bell of Delaware pinned Joe Snyder of Columbus in 11 minutes. Snyder attempted to throw Bell through the ropes but fell backwards. As they fell Bell forced Snyder's shoulders to the mat.

UTILITIES TOP DULL SESSION

Important Industrials and Motor Shares Force Down Price Scale.

NEW YORK, April 26—Strength and activity of the utility stocks and specialties featured an irregular week end market, in which a number of the important industrials, including the motors, lost ground.

Strong buying of Columbia Graphophone near the close forced that stock to above 50 for a new gain of nearly three points. Radio and Radio-Keith, with General Electric and other stocks of the electric manufacturing-radio-amusement family forged ahead brilliantly at times.

Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, United Corporation, United Gas Improvement and other favorites in the utility group established new high records for the year.

United Aircraft recovered the bulk of yesterday's losses, but a number of the well known industrials, mostly last year's favorites, like Johns Manville, Atlas Powder, Columbian Carbon and Canada Dry, were forced lower by persistent selling.

Continued weakness in wheat also influenced some selling of stocks.

U. S. Bonds

NEW YORK, April 26—Opening price quotations for Liberty bonds today were: 3½s, 100.1; fourth 4¼s, 101.24, and Treasury 4¼s, 111.10.

NEW LOW HIT BY MAY WHEAT

General Rains in Southwest Brighten Prospects For Good Crop.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 26—Sliding down near the dollar a bushel level, wheat today once more broke the season's low price record for May delivery contracts.

General rains in the southwest and west, where wheat crops have been suffering from drought, were largely responsible. Opening unchanged to ⅝ off wheat afterward rallied a little but then dropped again. Corn, oats and provisions gave way also with corn starting ⅛@¼ lower and subsequently continuing to sag.

Adding to the bearish consequences of moisture relief for wheat territory which has been dry were reports today that the federal farm board and the Canadian pool are in a race to dispose of wheat holdings.

Advices current were to the effect that the farm board is letting wheat go at sacrifice prices abroad cheaper than Canadian offerings. On the resulting downward sweep of values here, buying was largely confined to previous sellers who were collecting profits.

Weakness of Liverpool wheat values today gave a further advantage to sellers in Chicago. Dispatches from Liverpool said India is now offering new wheat for May-June shipment at $1.20⅝ a bushel delivered in England, and that India's wheat yield this season will be ample for home requirements, besides, allowing exports.

There were also assertions that lightness of world shipments of wheat is being construed at Liverpool as evidence of lack of demand.
